STRIKE SEEN AS MENACE TO FUTURE OF BRITAIN

Coal Miners May Be Joined By Rail Workers, Fear

200 MILLS IDLE

Cotton Spinners Will Quit Mules In Spite Of Pact

AGREEMENT NULL

Proposition Made By Union Disregarded By Workers

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 20.—The situation in regard to the coal dispute has not changed during the week-end, but the next few days will be charged with the most fateful consequences for the country, whose economic life is threatened with a shattering blow, involving inevitable destitution and misery for millions.

A feeling of hopefulness prevails in some quarters, based on the reported readiness of the Government to provide a court of enquiry to investigate the demand for a wage advance and rush out a report in a few days.

MEN AGAINST STRIKE

These quarters declare that Sunday's meetings in the various mining districts indicated that the men are not anxious to strike and it is admitted that the public generally sides against the miners.

On the other hand, the meetings showed that the men would support their leaders.

Today's resumed conference between Sir Robert Horne and the miners' leaders is regarded as most critical, and as the key to the situation.

There will meet in London tomorrow the National Conference of miners' leaders to decide on the question of a strike at the week-end, while on Wednesday the railwaymen and transport workers will meet to determine their attitude in the event of a coal strike.

RAILROADERS ARE MENACE

A dangerous factor as regards the railwaymen is the widespread belief that their union funds would be as hard hit by a miners' strike, owing to the payment of unemployment doles, as if the railwaymen struck and the funds carried strike pay. Consequently this view is encouraging the leaders to say "Let us strike, to get it over quickly, and win!"

Meanwhile it is authoritatively declared that the Government will not depart from its present policy of arbitration and of laying down that inquiry must precede any grant of increased wages, although some slight modifications in detail are possible.

London, Sept. 20.—Two hundred mills will be thrown idle at Oldham tomorrow by a strike of cotton-spinners, who have repudiated an agreement concluded by the union on their behalf. Thirty thousand operatives are affected.

LEADERS HAVE TEA

London, Sept. 20.—The resumed conference between the executive of the Miners' Federation and Sir Robert Horne took place this afternoon. After sitting for two hours, the Conference adjourned for tea. The fact that Sir Robert Horne and Mr. Smillie took tea together privately is regarded as a favorable sign.

"LABOR'S SUICIDE"

London, Sept. 19.—Reviewing the industrial crisis, Mr. J. L. Garvin, writing in the Observer, maintains that if the coal strike comes it will mean the suicide of Labor interests. It will be impossible, he declares, after it is over to restore the wages of the working-classes throughout the country to the present level.

If the strike comes, it will be simply because Mr. Smillie was determined from the beginning to force a struggle on one pretext or another. He has not negotiated, but proceeded from issue to issue by dictation. He only abandons one claim to table a new ultimatum, the latest of which is:

"Two shillings for us or catastrophe for you all!"

Mr. Garvin says that for once

Protest Is Lodged With Tokio For Detention Of Verdhne-Udinsk Delegation

Far Eastern Representatives Doubt Sincerity Of Japan's Friendly Policy And Demand Removal Of Further Hindrance By Nipponese

(Russia News Agency)

Verdhne-Udinsk, Sept. 15.—A communication received from the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Verdhne-Udinsk, Mr. Krasnosshtchekov, states that a protest was lodged with the Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Japanese high commissary, Mr. Mazudaira and the General Takaianagi by the delegation detained at the station Gongota. The text of the protest reads:

"On September 4, we, representatives of public organisations and of all political parties of the independent Russian Far East, were going to Chita, aided by the head of the Japanese Mission to Verdhne-Udinsk, Colonel Isome. The aim of our delegation, representing all political parties, is to unite the democracy of the entire Russian Far East, relying upon the principles of lawfulness, order and free expression of the will of the nations of the Russian Far East.

"On our arrival in Gongota the Japanese Mission prevented us from proceeding further, the cause being Semenoff's attempt to restore his power in Chita by means of suppressing the free democracy there.

STRENUOUS PROTEST

"We strenuously protest against the forced separation of us from the public organisations of Chita by the representatives of Japan for, by virtue of the armistice and declarations made by the Japanese command and the Japanese Mission, we have the right of free communication on the entire Russian territory. All persons hindering our work contribute directly or indirectly to the reinforcement of the anarchy of the country. On behalf of the public organisations of the Far Eastern Republic by whom we are elected, we protest against the actions which may render it possible for Ataman Semenoff to divide the Russian Far East and to suppress the free will of democracy by means of armed forces brought back to Chita.

"Nobody can tolerate the pressing upon the people of Semenoff's power, while the entire democracy of Chita urges the rejoining of the Russian Far East.

"We state that the free people of the Central Transbaikalia will not remain indifferent in the face of violation of its free will.

FEAR CIVIL WAR

"A fire of civil war may light up again. While we protest against such hostile activities towards us of the Japanese Government and Japanese command, we hope they will adopt urgent measures to make it possible for our delegation to proceed further immediately. Otherwise there will be reason to doubt all the declarations of a friendly Japanese policy towards the Russian people."

The protest is signed by the Chairman of the delegation, Mr. Petrov, representative of the Far Eastern Republic, members of the delegation: Mr. Piatidesjatnekov, representative of Zemstvo council, Mr. Rom, representative of the municipality, Mr. Shustov, representative of the co-operative societies, Mr. Genkin, representative of the Social democratic parties, Mr. Lisenko, representative of the Siberian union of the Socialist-revolutionary party, Secretary Mr. Lvoff and Mr. Kaplunoff.

FATAL BATTLE

The constabulary surrounded the drillers, who refused to surrender, whereupon fire was opened. One of the drillers was killed, several others wounded, and forty of them were captured with arms in their possession.

One constable was shot dead and two wounded.

SINN FEIN IN INDIA

London, Sept. 19.—"The next three months will be the most fateful in the whole history of India" declares the Observer in an article headed "Sinn Fein in India." Commenting on Mr. Gandhi's motion for a total boycott of British Government, which the recent Indian National Congress passed, the Observer says:

"The extremists' plan which is called non-co-operation, is to unloose the boycott gradually. Titles and honors are to be renounced. Lawyers are to shun the courts and pupils to withdraw from the colleges, the new councils are to be boycotted and foreign goods are not to be touched.

"There has never been anything like it. It would wreck reform, open the flood-gates of anarchy and stop railways and telegraphs, while revenue and commerce would cease, for if India did not import it could not export and the movement would soon break into violence.

BENGAL CONSERVATIVE

"On the other hand," proceeds the journal, "it is noteworthy that nearly half the delegates to the Congress withdrew before motion was carried. The Bengal leaders are solid against the extremists and at present there is the greatest need to mobilise this great bulk of moderate opinion if Indian reforms are to be saved."

The Observer declares that Mr. Gandhi wields a wider and more potent influence in India than any popular agitator ever possessed. "He is an exalted idealist of concentrated sincerity," says the journal, "and has a genius for fanaticism and incitement and consequently a tremendous task awaits the new Viceroy."

The Observer strongly favors the appointment of Mr. E. S. Montagu.

Plan Outlined At Dinner To Open Campaign Here For Famine Relief Fund

Messrs. Tang Shao-yi and Chu Pao-san, Chairman and Vice Chairman of the Committee directing the work started here by the Seven Provinces Famine Relief Association formed to give aid to starving Chinese in the north, entertained last night at a dinner at the Hsin-Hwa-Chuen to representatives of the foreign and Chinese press. There was a large attendance at the affair at which plans in connection with the public meeting that is to be held Saturday afternoon and details of the benevolent work that is being done were discussed.

In addresses that were given by the Chairman, Mr. Tang Shao-yi, Mr. Chu Pao-san and others reports that have come to Shanghai of the desperate plight to failure of crops were discussed which over thirty millions of people have been reduced through failure of crops were discussed and the acute need of extending prompt relief to prevent death from starvation of whole populations was made plain.

FUNDS ARE OFFERED

While it had been the aim of the Seven Provinces Famine Relief Association to raise a fund of $5,000,000 as a minimum, the fact that a large number of heavy contributions were offered before any actual appeals had been issued has made it apparent that a much larger amount than the minimum fixed will be subscribed. To date the association has received subscriptions amounting to $1,700,000.

The meeting Saturday afternoon is to be in the quarters taken over by the Bank of China, formerly the German Club on The Bund and it will be held at 4:30 o'clock. Representatives of all the Chinese guilds and other organisations will attend as well as members of the foreign consular body, and representatives of the British and

(Reuter's Wireless Service)

Paris, September 20.—A Polish communique reports that the Poles, breaking the Bolshevik resistance, have driven them beyond the Strypa, and are advancing towards the Upper Sereth.

They have occupied Czymaloff and are continuing their pursuit in the Kubyrn sector.

The Bolsheviks continue to make fierce attacks, but without success, in spite of having brought up new divisions to the front.

The districts temporarily occupied by the Red forces have been recaptured by Polish counter-attacks, in which the Bolsheviks lost heavily.

New York, September 19.—An Associated Press message from London states that after the peace conference between the Polish and Russian delegations at Riga had lasted two hours, the secretary of the Polish delegation said there was little chance of a cessation of fighting until preliminary terms had been agreed upon.

The favorable position of the Poles has given rise to general impression that the deliberations of the conference will be long drawn out.

ORDER IN COUNCIL SENDS OFFICES OF B.A.T. TO HONGKONG

As another effect of the recently promulgated British Order in Council, which provides that the management of China companies operating under British charters must be in the hands of British subjects, the main offices of the British American Tobacco Company are being removed to Hongkong from Shanghai.

Mr. T. F. Cobbs who has been manager of the Company here, has already gone to Hongkong to supervise the change which becomes effective October 1.

As a result of the change the office of the British American Tobacco Company in Shanghai will become a branch office and another result is that as the company will cease to be a China company and will be a Hongkong Company, the terms of the Order in Council no longer will apply to it.

Peking, September 21.—An official telegram from Canton, of yesterday's date, received in Peking, states that the garrison of the Boccatigris forts has declared in favor of General Chan Chiung-ming.

Wen Tsung-yao, who is still in Canton, expresses his confidence with regard to the outcome of the peace negotiations. He says that Peking has reached an agreement with all the Southern Provinces, except Yunnan and Kweichow. The general opinion in Canton however, is that the Administration is in a very dangerous position.

It is reported from Macao that the Aumen Jih Pao, a Chinese paper published in Macao, has been suppressed as it advocated Bolshevik principles, calculated to endanger vested interests.

STORY OF PRIEST

Hongkong, September 21.—A Catholic priest who has just returned from Waichow gave Reuter a graphic description of the way in which the Kwangsi troops are making war.

Tamsui, a large walled market-town, was visited by 300 soldiers of the "Popular Army," volunteer troops who favor General Chen Chiung-ming.

The volunteers engaged the Kwangsi troops but, finding themselves outnumbered, retreated to the north, leaving 70 prisoners and a number killed.

The Kwangsi troops entered the town and, besides committing outrages on the population, pillaged the town, doing approximately $500,000 damage. Only few shops escaped the attention of the looters.

The private house of the chief elder was looted and four persons killed, including the elder's aged wife. About 400 men, women and children, Christians and others, have taken refuge in the Catholic Mission compound.

VILLAGE BURNED

Pakmongfa, half a day's journey overland from Bias Bay has been burned and looted, the pawn-shops suffering the most severely. The damage done there the priest estimated at two lakhs.

Between the market-town of Maon and Pingshan numbers of villages have been burned and the countryside presents a scene of desolation.

Pingtam, a market-town seven miles from Maon, has been burnt to the ground. The leading elders and shopkeepers were shot dead.

At Niamao Christian women, who had taken refuge in the church, were dragged out and shot. One of them was carrying a baby, strapped to her back. The mother was killed but the bullet missed the infant.

At one stage of the journey to Waichow, before reaching Tamsui, a company of Kwangsi troops were seen regaling themselves with tea at a road-side stall. Upon observing the approach of a foreigner they promptly stood up in file in order to screen the dead bodies of five innocent villagers who had been shot a few minutes previously.

BODIES IN RIVER

A large number of Kwangsi troops were posted along the ridges of the hills for a long distance, armed with machine-guns and rifles.

The priest saw several bodies of villagers and soldiers floating down the East River at Waichow and concludes that the fighting must have been severe and continuous for wounded Kwangsi troops were being brought into the city every day.

The priest called on General Ma Chi, who received him courteously and promised full protection to Christian churches and church property and even offered him a safe passage on board a Government steamer from Waichow to Sheklung on his return to Hongkong. General Ma Chi endeavored to justify the excuses of his soldiers by explaining that stern repressive measures were necessary from the military point of view as the people in the surrounding country were for General Chen Chiung-ming.

At that time the city of Waichow was almost completely surrounded by General Chen Chiungming's troops and communication overland with Canton was cut off, the only means of transit being by the East River. The priest estimated that the troops engaged on both sides totaled 15,000.

the government's case is unanswerable. It offered either to refer the miners' wage claim to an impartial tribunal, or to give an increase in return for guarantees of a proportionately increased output.

If the strike comes, it will not last long, and will be memorably beaten.

FOOD SITUATION CRITICAL

London, Sept. 19.—Speaking at the Grocers' Exhibition in London, Mr. McCurdy, the food controller, declared that, apart from the possible coal strike, food prices would have risen by Christmas to such an extent has to make the weekly food-bills of a working-class family 9s. 9d. more than they were last Christmas.

He added that the crucial time as regards food prices had not yet come. It would come when the peoples of Central Europe became competitors in the world's markets with ourselves.

In The British Supreme Court

Mr. G. W. King, Registrar, heard two cases in the British Supreme Court yesterday.

The first case was on a judgment summons—Hung Ching—a tailor, vs. J. W. J. Langridge, the amount involved being $122.40.

Defendant did not appear and Mr. W. H. Hearne (the Court Marshal), proved service of summons. The defendant, he said, quite understood the time and date on which to appear. Defendant had been invalided out of the S. M. Police and was now working in some garage.

Judgment was entered—for the amount claimed with costs.

Kan Siao-yen v. W. A. Ellis

This was a judgment summons for $444 and costs.

Plaintiff was represented by Mr. J. G. Priestwood, and defendant made a late appearance stating that he had been waiting in the "police" court.

Defendant, in answer to Mr. Priestwood, said he had paid nothing on the judgment but asked to be allowed to make an application to the court.

The Court—You had better answer the question.

Defendant said he had earned money since February last, by teaching.

Counsel—How much?

Defendant—Without my books I cannot tell you.

Counsel—Give it me approximately.

Defendant—Well, I don't know. I was going to appeal to his Lordship for permission to suspend this case until the other case is finished.

His Honor—That case is, finished; it is pending.

Defendant—Mr. Priestwood appeared yesterday to defend a case, and I appeal to you for someone under British law, to represent me in this case.

The Court—you have had plenty of time; you were served as long ago as the 14th September.

Mr. Priestwood (to defendant)—I must press you to answer the question as to how much you have earned since February last. Have you been working regularly?

Defendant—No.

Counsel—Now I ask you approximately how much have you earned?

Defendant—Well, I have earned plenty of money.

Mr. Priestwood—Have you earned Tls. 1,000 or Tls. 2,000?

Defendant's answer was not understood.

Mr. Priestwood (to his Worship)—Well, I don't think this man is sober, (to defendant)—I am going to ask his honor to commit you for contempt, or I warn you to please realise what is the situation.

Defendant—Well I cannot tell you. Those books have not been handed over.

Counsel—Why didn't you pay anything on this judgment?

Defendant—Simply because my wife would not allow me to pay anything.

Counsel—So that. You prefer to give your money to your wife rather than to obey the order of this court?

Defendant—No. I would have liked to have paid my debts if my wife were not willing to pay them.

Counsel—Then you paid your money to your wife?

Defendant—I did.

Counsel—Why did you not come in the court?

Defendant—My wife prevented me from coming into court.

Counsel—But you are master in your own house?

Defendant—No, unfortunately I was not. I was not in very good health.

Counsel—Arising from your own fault?

Defendant—I don't know.

In answer to the court, Mr. Priestwood said that defendant's story was a "childish" one.

The Court—Not impossible, Mr. Priestwood. (Laughter).

Counsel—Have you had a holiday this year?

Defendant—Yes; two months at Chingwangtao.

Counsel—How much did that cost you?

Defendant—I don't know.

Counsel—Why?

Defendant—Because I never paid anything.

Counsel—Who paid?

Defendant—My wife.

The Court—How much of your money do you think your wife has?

Defendant—I am waiting to figure it out.

The Court—I don't want to be sarcastic but your case is something like that of McCanber?

Defendant—Yes, that may be so.

Defendant offered to pay the debt by instalments, and the case was adjourned until Friday, on his honors' suggestion, for the production of the evidence of Mrs. Ellis.

DELEGATION SAILS

The Frawley Company

"Scandal," the play that was written from the book of that name which scandalised the English public after the volume had been suppressed, was produced with telling effect last night at the Lyceum by the Frawley Company.

The story follows a train of circumstances that arise when an indiscreet young woman, surprised by her parents in an artist's apartment at night, offers as an explanation for her presence there the statement that she has been secretly wedded to a man who happens to be present.

In the second act, a bedroom scene, the pseudo-husband, an altogether eligible bachelor who has been accepted gladly by the girl's family, has seemingly determined to make the girl pay for the thing she has forced upon him and he demands that she play out in fact her part as his bride. This part of the supposed husband, Pelham Franklin, is played by Mr. Albert Morrison, who has not failed to score heavily in all of the offerings that the company has presented in its current engagement.

Miss Vera Doria appears in the part of the indiscreet maid, Beatrix Vanderdyke, who has thrown convention to the winds as a protest against the humdrum life imposed by her mother, Mrs. Henry Vanderdyke, a part played by Miss Leslie Virden in a most effective manner. The play holds the interest of the onlooker from the opening act and in all respects is well up to Frawley standards.

"It Pays to Advertise" will be given tonight by the company.

PETER RANKIN

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rankin of Peking will regret to learn that their little son, Peter, died at half past seven o'clock Thursday morning after a long and painful illness. Peter Rankin was taken ill with intestinal trouble at Peitaiho last July and for several weeks fought successfully a fever that averaged well over 100 degrees. Mr. and Mrs. Rankin sent for the best medical assistance available in Peking; and their son had made such progress early this month that it proved possible to bring him back to Peking a few days ago. Here, however, he suffered a relapse that resulted in his death.

PLAN OUTLINED

According to tentative plans an organisation allied with the Seven Provinces Famine Relief Association, which was formed by a group of about forty leading Chinese, will be formed Saturday with a membership of both foreigners and Chinese to aid the work of relief. It is intended to name a committee composed of three foreigners and three Chinese with Chairman and vice chairmen and definite plans to set in motion a campaign to raise a fund running well into the millions will be mapped out.

RELIEF MEASURES PLANNED BY AMERICAN MINISTER

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, September 18.—The American Minister gave a dinner this evening to a number of Cabinet Ministers and members of the Diplomatic Corps with a view to discussing with them detailed measures for the relief of the famine sufferers in Chihli, Honan, Shansi and Shantung. As a result of this meeting Mr. Crane appointed five or six members of the American community to represent the Americans of Peking in the proposed International Relief Committee. It is hoped that the first session of this committee can be held late this or early next week, as prompt action is necessary if the relief work in North China is to be done anywhere near efficiently. Everything depends, however, on the British and French communities here, neither of which has yet taken any definite action towards the appointment of representatives for the International Committee.

Chinese relief measures have, in the meantime, been going ahead steadily, and both Liang Shih-yi's Five Provinces Relief Society and the relief commission organised by the Ministries of the Interior, Finance and Agriculture and Commerce have taken steps to arouse the country to the need of the famine-stricken district. Liang Shih-yi, furthermore, has informed the American Legation and other interested foreigners that he welcomes foreign co-operation in relieving the famine sufferers and, indeed, looks to the foreigners in China to lead the way in this work.

PLANS IMPROVEMENTS

It is Liang's plan to give away relief funds only in the most urgent cases and to use the greater part of these funds for constructive purposes in the districts affected by the famine. River conservancy, road construction and industrial development are the chief improvements that Liang and his colleagues have in mind at present and are generally regarded as the most important works that should be undertaken in the famine areas. In all of this work, as well as in the task of collecting money and buying relief supplies, Liang Shih-yi and all other prominent Chinese feel that foreign co-operation is essential to success.

The Ministry of Communications is, in the meantime, prepared to go ahead with the construction of embankments for the Chefoo-Weihsien and Shihchiachuang-Tsangchow lines, the latter giving the Tientsin-Pukow Line a direct route to Shansi, provided sufficient funds are forthcoming. Laborers for this work will be employed only from the famine areas, and their compensation will be in the form of food as well as of money.

Peking, September 18.—Mr. Charles R. Crane, the American Minister, acting in accordance with the authority given him last Tuesday to appoint an American committee to represent Peking's American community on the proposed International Famine Relief committee, has designated the following seven men to represent the American residents of Peking:

COMMITTEE NAMED

Chairman: Mr. H. C. Faxon, President of the American Chamber of Commerce and Manager of Messrs. Andersen, Meyer and Co., Treasurer: Mr. H. C. Emery, Manager of the Asia Banking Corporation; Secretary: Dr. George D. Wilder, of the American Board Mission; and Mr. R. R. Gailey, of the Y. M. C. A.; Mr. J. E. Baker, Chairman of the American Red Cross and of the American Association; Mr. J. A. Thomas, Vice-President of the Chinese-American Bank; and Mr. R. A. Burr, of the Chun Mei News Agency and the Public Ledger Syndicate.

At the request of the Chinese relief societies the names of the members of the American committee have been communicated to the Chinese Government and to Mr. Liang Shih-yi, Chairman of the Five Provinces Famine Relief Society.

The Chinese desire to meet the American committee at an early date to arrange for co-operation between all interested relief groups; and it is expected that such a meeting, or a meeting between the Chinese and the proposed International Committee, will take place early next week.

The British residents of Peking are holding a meeting to elect representatives to the International Committee on Monday afternoon, September 20, at the British Legation Theater, thus rendering the outlook for the formation of a strong International Committee exceedingly hopeful. With an International Committee formed and with the Chinese anxious to co-operate with it in every way the prospects for the efficient relief of the famine-stricken areas are good.

CASH IS VOTED

Peking, Sept. 21.—The Kengshen Association, which consists of 2,000 members, has passed a resolution that each member shall subscribe at least $20 to the Famine Relief Fund.

OFFICIALDOM OF HUPEH OBSERVES CONFUCIAN DAY

Civil Governor And Subs Stay Up All Night To Offer Sacrifices

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, September 17.—Chinese officials have long been known as close followers of China's great sage Confucius. The fact is corroborated by the way they remember and respect Confucius. A ceremonious function is held every year during the autumn season, when officials all over the country kneel down before the altar, offering their prayers to Confucius. That they do have profound respect for Confucius may be shown from the manner in which officials in Wuchang worshipped Confucius.

The day for worshipping Confucius fell on September 16 this year. Before that date, officials in Wuchang had been instructed by Peking to make preparations for the ceremony. Accordingly preparations were made to celebrate this occasion. The superintendent of the Confucius' Temple was ordered to clean the temple. Some civil officials in the provincial government administration, who are versed in the old grand ceremony of China, were asked to draft a program for the day in accordance with the Chinese Books of Rites. Besides all civil officials in Wuchang were invited to attend the ceremony by the Civil Governor, Mr. Sun Chen-chia.

DO NOT SLEEP

The officials did not sleep all night on September 15. This alone shows how anxious they were to worship their sage. At 3 a.m. on September 16, the ceremony of worship began. The hall in the Tuchun's yamen was beautifully decorated for the occasion, with pompous display of offerings which had been prepared according to Chinese rites. Mr. Sun Chen-chia, the new Civil Governor of Hupeh, officiated at the function, with the presence of the following officials: Chief of the General Department of the Hupeh Government, Commissioner of Finance, Commissioner of Industries, Commissioner of Education, Judge of the Wuchang District Court, Magistrate of Wuchang and Police Commissioner. Besides the officials a batch of young boys with special training in the ceremony were assisting in the function. A band of Chinese old music furnished some Chinese ancient airs which were by no means appropriate to modern China.

The function had not been finished until daybreak, when the officials retired for rest in the day.

Officials in Hankow and Hanyang, however, did not hold any function to worship Confucius. This clearly shows that officials in Wuchang simply keep it up for the sake of form: they must do it anyway as long as there is a Peking order.

Ex-Kaiser Pinched; Sons Get Scant Aid; Mother Opens Purse

The Hague, Aug. 9.—From persons here closely connected with the ex-Kaiser's intimate entourage it is learned that the ex-Kaiser's fortune in Holland at present amounts to 1,000,000 guilders (at current exchange $340,000), this being equivalent to the sum the ex-monarch brought with him in gold and silver marks on his flight from Germany in 1918.

According to the best authority, the ex-Kaiser has received no other money from Germany since. The sum already mentioned has been placed in a bank in the name of his Hofmarshal, von Gothard, who manages all of the Doorn household's financial affairs and is said to be "a regular tightwad."

William Hohenzollern cannot draw as much as one dollar from the bank without von Gothard's signature.

The purchase of the house at Doorn, costing 500,000 guilders, and the alterations and surplus building, costing another 500,000 guilders, have been a considerable drain on the Hohenzollern funds, contributing to the ex-monarch's anxiety about the public appropriation of his estates in Germany.

The ex-Kaiser's old friend, Prince Fuerstenberg, has lately been at Doorn to discuss the fate of the Hohenzollern property.

Numerous visits to Doorn by the ex-Kaiser's sons, who at present are in financial straits, are generally with the object of obtaining money. The ex-Kaiser refuses to be touched, but the ex-Kaiserin is unable to refuse her sons' demands on her purse, so they depart with any ready money she has, sometimes only a few hundred guilders.

On the occasion of his last visit to his parents the ex-Crown Prince received, beside money, the present of a few tables, chairs and other articles of furniture, for his house at Wieringen.

Prince Oscar, who has just spent a few days at Doorn, is now visiting the ex-Crown Prince at Wieringen. Prince Eitel Friedrich is still Doorn.

Von Gothard has absolute authority in the Doorn household and, for reasons of his own, it is declared, does not allow any one to see or speak to the ex-Kaiser alone.

The ex-Kaiserin has just had another bad heart seizure. While partially recovering after each seizure, she loses strength each time, which she does not regain, although she is now again allowed to be driven in a pony wagon about the grounds. She rides only in a reclining posture, being carried on a stretcher from the house.

HE'S 'FOCH' TO HIS SENTRY

Laconic Poilu Tells General, "You Don't Say 'Marshal' Napoleon"

Paris, July 15.—"Foch will keep us waiting 15 or 20 minutes," said the sentry at the Gare du Nord recently while the special train that was to bear the French delegation to Spa was being shunted on the siding.

An elderly little man, wearing the undress uniform of a General of Division, with the Military Medal, War Cross and Legion of Honor, sauntered up and quite amiably said: "You might at least call him 'Marshal Foch.'"

The soldier took one glance at the General, then standing rigid at attention, replied: "One never says 'Marshal Caesar' or 'Marshal Napoleon,' Monsieur le Marechal."

Smiling broadly, Marshal Foch entered the special train.

BANS IMMODEST DRESS

Cardiff, Wales, July 13.—Again a British clergyman has put his foot down against the prevailing fashions in women's dress and refused to give communion to women who kneel at the alter rail in attire which he may regard as immodest.

Father Joseph Parlin, celebrating high mass at Saint Paul's Roman Catholic Church here issued the following warning to his congregation:

"I hope," he said "that lady members of my parish will not attempt to attire themselves in some of the present day fashions. If any immodestly dressed woman approaches the altar for Holy Communion I shall refuse to allow her to partake of the Sacrament, passing her by as if she did not exist."

TO BURN $75,000 WORTH OF OPIUM SEIZED IN CHEFOO

Drug In Transit Was Taken By Local Authorities For Destruction

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, September 15.—Tomorrow there is to be a big burning of opium over at the West Beach. A fine conflagration should be witnessed. $75,000.00 is to be sent up to the sky in smoke. The haul was made by the authorities about a week ago from a vessel plying between here and Vladivostok. Something like ten piculs had been smuggled on board the ship and while in the harbor, it was discovered. Two soldiers or policemen with loaded carbines are constantly on guard to prevent a raid on it. The authorities will experience a sense of relief when it has been destroyed. It is stated that if the opium smugglers can get one lot in four into the place, it pays them to continue the game; such is the demand for opium in China to day that it is worth losing three in every four lots which the smugglers endeavor to get through.

Chefoo has no complaints to make on the score of a scarcity of rain. The last day or two there has been a continual downpour, and today the roads are heavy as a result of what has fallen. The rivulets and running gullies witness to the quantity of rain that fell. The crops appear to be in excellent condition, too, so the outlook for Chefoo is not bad.

The hot weather has left us, and the days and nights are beautifully cool. The changes in temperature are rather sudden and there is need to exercise care lest chills are to be avoided.

The American torpedo flotilla has left, and the Huron is to take her departure in a few days. The ships have been in Chefoo for the summer and their presence has livened things considerably. Provision merchants have netted quite a good deal in consequence of the visit, and a big trade in silk and lace has been done. The ships are to return next summer. This being the case something should be done in the way of securing a large sized field as a base ball diamond for the men ashore to play upon. There is talk of appealing to the American Y.M.C.A. for the money required to purchase a big area of land near to the West Beach. If this could be acquired and the necessary dollars alone are required for the purpose, there would be a place for the men, when on shore leave, to go to. If the local Y.M.C.A. could place a capable man in charge, the men's wants could be cared for and there would be less inclination on their part to consume the alcoholic liquor which is provided for them.

Mrs. Mills of the American Presbyterian Mission is back in Chefoo again. She has a large Deaf and Dumb School and her work amongst the unfortunate Chinese who cannot speak is too well known to need comment. She has been having a much needed furlough in the States. She has come back to erect a fine school so that more pupils can be taken in. It is estimated that the new institution will cost about twenty thousand dollars. While she has been in the States one of her teachers has been in the surrounding districts discovering how many are deaf and dumb. In the few places which he visited he found two hundred who were afflicted in this way. One naturally wonders how many there are in the country if so large a number can be discovered in the proximity of Chefoo.

The Tennis tournaments are being played off at the Recreation Club each afternoon. Some fine contests are to be witnessed. Chefoo possesses some excellent tennis exponents.

BALL PLAYER'S CORRUPTION CHARGES CAUSE COAST LEAGUE SENSATION; SAYS VERNON CLUB "BOUGHT" PENNANT

"Babe" Borton, Accused Of Complicity With Gamblers, Tells Of "Slush Fund" Collected From Fellow-Players To "Buy Off" Members Of Opposing Teams

Here's a fine kettle of malodorous fish, just in from across the pond!

California newspapers recently received here contain a sensational story which may, if substantiated, shake professional baseball in America to its very foundations.

The story has to do with a series of charges brought by "Babe" Borton, giant first baseman of the Vernon club in the Pacific Coast League, to the effect that some 20 of his teammates conspired, last year, to bribe players on other clubs to "throw" games, in order that Vernon club might win the championship.

Borton, himself charged by League officials with having accepted a bribe to "lay down" in a game against Salt Lake, declares that the accused Vernon players took up a "slush fund" of $2,000 last season and "bought off" a number of players on other clubs. The Vernon club eventually won the Coast League pennant and then defeated St. Paul, pennant-winners in the American Association, for the minor-league championship of the United States.

Harry B. Smith, writing in the San Francisco Chronicle of August 11, describes the situation as follows:

Charges made by "Babe" Borton, first baseman of the Vernon club, that twenty members of the Vernon team entered into a conspiracy last fall and raised a slush fund of $2,000 to bribe members of other clubs into permitting the Tigers to win the pennant, were made public last night by President William H. McCarthy.

This sensation, the biggest of all the scandals that have threatened Coast League baseball, has already been tried by McCarthy, who insists that after a thorough investigation, he can see no reason for believing what Borton told him.

BORTON'S DENIALS

The ball player has denied completely that at any time was he implicated in "framing" ball games for the benefit of the gamblers who infest Coast league cities; denied that he and Maggert had participated in any crap game and then explained that the money (which he was accused of paying to Maggert) was due Maggert for his share in allowing the Vernonites to win the pennant.

To make it seem reasonable that individual members of the Vernon Club would go into their own pockets, Borton declared they did so because they were confident their share in the St. Paul post-season series and in the bonus fund being raised by Los Angeles fans would more than repay them.

GAVE THE DETAILS

In his "confession" to McCarthy, Borton went into details as to how the deal was handled, going so far as to name outside players he insists are implicated. As Borton told the story, it was Manager Essick who suggested that he (Borton) might know of Salt Lake players who would be willing to help Vernon make sure of first place, and it was Essick who suggested the $2,000 slush fund.

Borton said that he personally agreed to make the following payments:

Harl Maggert, Salt Lake	$500
Bill Rumler, Salt Lake	250
Gene Dale, Salt Lake	500

Subsequently, says Borton, he learned another player on the Vernon club was approaching men and made agreements as follows:

Eddie Mulligan, Salt Lake	$350
Del Baker, Portland	100
Red Oldham, Portland	100
Catcher Knehler, Portland	$100 or 50
Elmer Rieger, Seattle	100

SAID HE PAID OFF

Borton affirmed that after the post-championship series he (Borton) collected the money due the Vernon boys and paid each, after deducting the $100 in accordance with the agreement. He explained that Maggert did not take his money at the time, was paid $200 on account and took the balance recently just before the rambling scandal was made known.

McCarthy, in reaching the conclusion that the Borton statement is a mass of lies, says he investigated the matter thoroughly and interrogated every ball player on the Vernon team.

"I spent hours in going over the matter with Borton," said McCarthy last night. "Maier met me at the train and told me that the disclosures to be made to me were too important for him to handle and that it was up to me to investigate. He said they involved himself and his club and were of a personal nature.

"Also, after revealing the nature of the charges, he made this statement:

"'Whatever steps you desire to take will be satisfactory to me, even if I have to finish the season with a bunch of bush leaguers.'

"I interrogated all the members of the Vernon team. Each man denied the charges, and if they are lying they are the best of actors. The preponderance of evidence is against Borton, to my way of thinking."

McCarthy had a long talk with Pitcher Dell and asked him what he knew. Dell said that long before the gambling charges were even hinted at, Borton told him he (Borton) was going to make an offer to Ralph Stroud to throw a game.

"Nobody ever offered me money," retorted Dell to Borton.

"Well, there's $300 in it if you throw a game," is what Dell alleges Borton replied.

Then Dell answered that he didn't want to be offered any money and cautioned Borton against making a proposition to Stroud.

McCarthy argues this corroborates the original Stroud statement.

The league head has sent a personal wire to Maier, assuring the owner that his club has been vindicated and congratulating Maier on his stand.

Already McCarthy has instructed the Seattle Baseball club by wire that Nate Raymond, well known local sporting character, is to be barred from the Seattle park as well as all other parks in the league, stating that this action is based on confidential reports the president has received from investigators.

The Seattle Club is warned that other expulsions are likely to follow and it is urged that Chief of Police Searing of Seattle be invited to work with the club in a determined effort to rid their park of gamblers. In closing, McCarthy said in his wire:

"If half the reports I hear are true, the best thing that can happen in Seattle would be for the Chief of Police to back up his patrol wagon and put some of the so-called gamblers where they belong."

"RECS" DEFEAT HONGKONG TEAM ON THE GREENS

Local Lawn Bowlers Take Closely Contested Game From Southerners

(BY 'SKIP")

At the Recreation Club's green yesterday afternoon the Hongkong lawn bowls team received another shock in the shape of defeat at the hands of the local club. The game was very evenly contested and some good bowling was witnessed all through.

The visitors got away at the start but were soon overhauled; steady play on both sides made the score level at 11 ends. After this the locals got in a five and Hongkong nothing. Both secured a three and two singles, eventually drawing level at the 19th end; 18 points each.

There was great excitement at this point and it was anybody's game, but by dint of combined steady play the Recs got a couple of braces and secured the honors by the narrow margin of four points.

For the visitors Pile, as lead, was distinctly good, while Simpson (who played his first game here) was very safe. Muirhead at third was a team in himself and saved the situation on many occasions.

All the Recs men played well throughout and thoroughly deserved their win. Veitch, as skip, showed excellent judgment and Marks and Shaw were particularly deadly, Phillip also played very well as lead.

Team: Hongkong: R. Lapsley, (skip), J. Muirhead, A. Simpson, A. G. Pile—18.

Recreation Club: H. Veitch (skip), J. Shaw, S. Marks, R. Phillip—22.

HONGKONG v. JUN. GOLF CLUB

Hongkong will meet the Junior Golf Club today at Hongkew Park at 3 p.m. and a good game is anticipated.

The teams will be as follows:

Hongkong: P. Farrell (skip), J. Muirhead, A. Simpson, A. G. Pile.

Junior Golf Club: G. B. Stormes (skip), D. McAlister, W. R. Kinipple, and P. W. Ephgrave.

Reserve—J. Marshgreen.

Once upon a Long time ago

This column is open to all "Old-Timers."

Don't you remember some great football game or tennis match, baseball, golf, cricket, rowing, swimming or boxing contest you have witnessed—Some big sporting event in a reminiscence of which our readers would be interested?

Send in your signed story! If you have a picture of the principals, or of the event itself, send it along. Let's make "Once upon a Time" a big Far Eastern feature!

Madison Square Garden, New York's historic hippodrome-coliseum, has been saved once more from the hands of the wreckers. Recent news-letters from the American metropolis contain the welcome information that "Tex" Rickard, premier fight promoter, has leased the famous old structure for a period of years from the New York Life Insurance Company, which holds a $2,000,000 mortgage on the property and was about to order the building to be razed and a modern skyscraper erected in its place.

Thus the restoration of the boxing game in New York State has already accomplished a great work, by saving from destruction (temporarily, at least) one of the most romantic and, in a sense, —sacred—edifices in America.

What would we do—even those of us at present sojourning in far-away China—if Madison Square Garden were to be demolished? Think of the exciting news items we would miss if this great forum-arena-auditorium were to be levelled and the varied troupes, or couplets, or individual entertainers were compelled to seek other housing in which to offer their wares to the ever-changing host which infests (there is no other word for it) the "first city" of the United States?

60 YEARS "YOUNG"

Built in the middle seventies (if memory serves) this gallant old rendezvous of pleasure and diversion, established at the edge of Madison Square on a plot of ground which was then considered well "up-town," has watched New York grow from a city of moderate, comfortable size to a mighty metropolis challenging the world for population, power and progress.

And in the sixty years of its existence how many millions have laughed and cried, whistled and sang, applauded and hissed, or sat spellbound by speaker or spectacle, beneath the sheltering roofs and canopies of "The Garden"? It would be hard indeed to estimate. The seating capacity of the building is 10,000 persons. Figuring roughly, this has been taxed to the uttermost at least twice a month since the doors were thrown open to the public. This gives us a total of 15,600,000 persons who have been variously diverted or entertained within the structure—without counting the innumerable occasions when the building has been crowded from one week's end to another, as when the circus, the six-day bicycle race, the horse-show or the Allied Bazaar came to town.

It is next to impossible to enumerate the uses to which "the Garden" has been put during its career of sixty years as a hall of entertainment. A few will give you an idea of its adaptability.

First, the circus. What would happen to "the greatest show on earth" if it were deprived of the privilege of opening its annual extravaganza of acrobatics, equestrianism, wild-animal exhibitions and whatnot, in the sawdust center of "the Garden."?

Where would the aristocratic horse-show, and the plebian "bike race," and the annual conventions of dog, poultry and automobile fanciers find sanctuary, were "the Garden" to be replaced by a vulgar, up-to-date office building?

Where would we see those vast crowds of red-blooded men—from David Belasco and Harrison Fisher down the line of temperament to "Cyp the Blood" and "Knife" McGuirk—who revel in the fistic clash of trained gladiators; where would they gather as I have seen them gathered for the historic battles of the past—"Gunboat" Smith and "Bombardier" Wells, Willard and Moran, Britton and McFarland and a dozen others?

Where would our orators—the Roosevelts, the Bryans, the Wilsons—be able to address such audiences as have gathered to hear them in Madison Square Garden; aye, and overflowed three times and more into the side streets and across to the Square, where spell-binders of less importance endeavored to substitute for the "big wigs" and drive home the party arguments?

Where would they hold the great military, police and fire department tournevs, the wrestling matches, the "Venetian nights," the band concerts, the flowers shows, the multi-conventions that have caucused there year after year?

Think it over!

Could America really afford to lose Madison Square Garden?

Chang Ching-ting Is First Anfu Leader To Pay Supreme Penalty

Brother Of Former Tuchun Of Hunan Is Called Upon To Face Firing Squad Of Provincial Soldiers

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, September 14.—The first outlawed Anfu leader in China to receive capital punishment is probably Chang Ching-tang, brother of Chang Ching-yao, ex-Tuchun of Hunan who through his corrupt rule and maladministration caused untold sufferings to the Hunanese during his tenure of office.

Chang Ching-tang was the fourth brother of Chang Ching-yao, and is believed to have helped his brother in squeezing and spoiling the province of Hunan. Though Chang Ching-yao was often made the scape-goat for conditions in Hunan, Chang Ching-tang was none the less notorious. But the cause leading to his death is not his past course in Hunan. It is his participation in the recent Anfu-Chihli conflict in the interest of the Anfu Club of which he was a prominent member that ended his life.

LED LUXURIOUS LIFE

When Chang Ching-yao was routed from Hunan by Southern forces under Tan Yen-kai in June and escaped to Wuchang from Yochow, all his troops were placed under the control of Tuchun Wang Chuan-yuan of Hupeh by a Presidential mandate. Having realised the hopeless situation he was placed, he gave up his last hope of recovering Hunan, and began to enjoy an easy life in the British Concession of Hankow, his riches and fortune being plenty enough to warrant all luxuries of life. Chang Ching-tang however was unsatisfied with the then existing order, and wanted to recover the former prestige of his brother, and particularly to save face for the Anfu Club.

With this purpose in mind, he set to work out a rebellion or mutiny among the broken and reorganised troops of his brother, the Seventh Division.

At that time, the Seventh Division was stationed at Wusueh by order of Tuchun Wang Chuan-yuan who meant to prevent disorders and looting in this commercial center by removing away these ill-disciplined troops of Chang Ching-yao. Chang Ching-tang realised the opportunity for upsetting Chihli interests in Hupeh by stirring up these reorganised and routed troops who were now under a new head.

PLOTS WITH MAO

He went to Wusueh, a port of call on the Yangtsze River near Hankow, and worked and intrigued with a General Mao in order to stir up revolt, or at least mutiny and looting. His plan was such that if a rebellion failed, the troops would automatically dispersed in the province and would cause great chaos and disturbances in the districts through looting and robbery. Thus they would be able to overthrow the Chihli force in Central China by ousting Tuchun Wang Chuan-quan from Hupeh.

Unfortunately all his schemes had been discovered and watched with vigilance by Tuchun Wang before they were carried out. Meantime, Tuchun Wang despatched a detachment of General Feng Yu-hsiang, the famous Christian General of China, to Wusueh. General Feng's forces arrived there just in time to put down the planned outbreak of Seventh Division. There was no fighting except a skirmish in which Chang Ching-tang was arrested.

TAKEN TO WUCHANG

Upon his arrest, Tuchun Wang ordered his commanders to escort him to his yamen in Wuchang for imprisonment. At the same time, telegram was sent to Peking disclosing his plans for defeating Chihli interests in Hupeh. He was tried afterwards for several things. And Peking seemed determined that some form of condign punishment should be meted out to Chang Ching-tang.

After more than one month's imprisonment in Wuchang, his case was referred to Peking for final verdict. Various rumors were then circulating as to his punishment running from a term of imprisonment to capital punishment. At last a telegraphic reply was received from the Presidential Office in Peking by Tuchun Wang in the evening of September 10. Tuchun Wang was instructed to execute Chang Ching-tang in Wuchang instead of escorting him to Peking.

Before the final verdict from Peking, by the way, General Tan Yen-kai in Changsha placed posters in that city advising Hunanese who had grounds of grievances against Chang Ching-tang to refer their cases to Tuchun Wang. Various letters had been received, which added more to his crimes before the court martial in Wuchang and hastened his death.

GETS CASH PAPER AND WINE

At 7:50 on September 11, an officer with a squad of soldiers was despatched to execute him. The officer showed Chang Ching-tang the telegram from Peking, and he was shocked on perusing its contents. Then the officer ordered the jailers to take him out. Chang Ching-tang, however, refused to come out instantly, demanding a little respite in order to write a letter to his family, which was acceded. Before execution, he also gave $6.00 to the jailor asking him to burn $4 worth of "cash-paper" to him after his death and to procure him $2 of wine before execution. As he was thus lingering for life, the soldiers bound him up and took him out of the prison. He was placed near a wall in front of the main gateway, where investigation was made to confirm his person.

On Chang Ching-tang having been recognised to be right person, four shots were fired through the body of the unfortunate Anfu leader who had done much to cause sufferings to the province of Hunan by squeezing, opium smuggling, and all notorious ways of exacting money from the people. Overwhelming cowds of people were called forth at that early morning hour to witness the execution of a notorious Anfu leader.

BROTHER AT LIBERTY

His brother Chang Ching-yao, who is living in Hankow, was at once communicated with to remove the body of Chang Ching-tang. Tuchun Wang Chuan-yuan presented the deceased Anfu leader with a coffin worth $200.

Chang Ching-yao who with the backing of the Anfu Club at Peking spoiled Hunan to a deplorable extent, still enjoys freedom and comfort in the foreign concession of Hankow. His troops were responsible for the death of the late Reverend William R. Reimert, an American missionary of the U. S. Reformed Church Mission and acting President of the Lakeside College of Yochow.

Students Join Ranks Of General Wu Pei-fu To Control War Lords

Youthful Chinese Cast Their Lot With Insurgent Leader To Assure Proper Government Of China

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, September 16.—About one hundred Chinese students of middle schools and colleges of Wuchang and Hankow, mostly leaders in the national students movement, have decided to join the ranks under the command of General Wu Pei-fu, China's national hero who has just completed the downfall of the Anfu military dictatorship in China.

The purpose of these young students for joining the army is neither for taking a chance for making fortune nor for personal advancement. The primary cause which urged these young men to quit their desks for the ranks is the unbearable and untoward pressure of officials in this province toward the students' movement.

BETTER GOVERNMENT

As a result of the students' agitation for better government in China here in Wuchang and Hankow, most of the brightest boys in government schools and colleges were dismissed from school or placed under ban by local officials. In one instance, eight students of a government college in Wuchang were driven out of the college compound by soldiers at the point of bayonet. Still in another case, students who were editors of a certain weekly publication by students of the Wuchang Government Normal College were outlawed by Tuchun Wang Chuan-yuan of Hupeh. Spies were sent out to arrest these students, and it was only by changing their names that these unfortunate young men were able to hide themselves and avoid a jail term, as the spies made inquiries as to their whereabouts at the hotels at which they were hidden.

NEW MEASURES PLANNED

On the advent of the fall when schools are to be reopened, fresh measures have been adopted to tyrannise the students. Meetings were held by school authorities and officials to discuss methods for preventing student agitations. And in addition several students who were once active or leaders in the student propaganda were dismissed from most government schools in Wuchang, in view of a movement by students here in sympathy with students in other parts of the country.

Such being the fate facing the students, it so happened that some of the dismissed student leaders were thinking of joining the army under their respected hero, General Wu Pei-fu, as a better place for rendering service and combating evil and undermining forces in China copying the idea of the Children's Crusade in Europe. They urged the Wu-Han Student Federation to send a letter to Gen. Wu at Paotingfu, asking his consent to this proposition. Accordingly a communication was sent to Paotingfu. General Wu, being a great sympathiser of the students' movement that was so much oppressed by the overthrown Anfu clique, gladly replied to the Wu-Han Students' Federation expressing his cheerful consent.

STUDENTS JOIN ARMY

On receiving this note, the students began to gather those willing to join the army under General Wu. There was an immediate response to this call, twenty students being enrolled. The first batch left for the North by train early this month. After that the news spread in this center, calling forth large numbers of young students ready and willing to go. The second batch that is go tomorrow, September 17, consists of eight students. Of these men, some are sons of wealthy families.

This second batch of students were entertained by the students' federation before their departure for Paotinfu on September 14. At the meeting, delegates from schools were present to wish them success and give them encouragement and advice. After the speeches of the delegates, a student representing the second batch responded with a few remarks, convincing the audience that they were not going to make money or fortune, but to render service to country.

TIME IS LIMITED

It is said that the enrollment for the second batch would have been still larger had the time limit not been narrowed to a few days. Many inquiries have been received by the students' federation from students in this center. But word having been received from General Wu Pei-fu that he could only take a few men, no more students will be sent.

These hundred young men going to join General Wu's army all had signed guaranty forms expressing their willingness before they left. Their parents, too, attached their own signatures giving their assent to their sons going to join the army.

REORGANISE FORCES

A Szechuen report says that Wang Ching-wei, Sieh Tze and others, representatives of Wu Ting-fang, Sun Yat-sen and Tang Shao-yi are now there discussing expeditions to Kwangsi, Hupeh and Shensi with the leaders of Yunnan, Kweichow and Szechuen forces and taking every step to carry them out.

The Cabinet office states that the troops of Chihli, Honan and Shantung have now been reorganised. Deputy Inspectorate-General Wu is in charge of the training of the troops and General Tsao Kun is responsible to the Government. Out of the one division and nine mixed brigades of Chihli troops, two brigades have been disbanded since the Inspectorate-General's return to Paotingfu.

It was reported yesterday that the war Ministry has approached the British Marconi Company with a request for a loan of $3,000,000 in order to buy 40 wireless telegraph apparatus. More than 50 wireless telegraph stations will be pledged to that firm as security for the repayment of the loan above mentioned.

This paper claims to have found after careful investigation that a year before last the War Ministry co-operated with the Marconi Company in organising the Chun Hua Wireless Telegraph Company. This was negotiated by the representatives of the said British firm and General Ting Ching, who represented the Ministry of War. As a result of the meeting held by the Board of Directors of the company, it was decided to carry out a nation wide plan for wireless service in China and General Ting Ching was appointed to formulate a memorandum to the Government in this connection. Ostensibly, it is a national scheme for Chinese wireless enterprise and not a foreign loan, but it allows the Chun Hua Wireless Telegraph Company to monopolise the wireless communications in the country.

MINISTRY DISAPPROVES

The authorities of the Communications department are dissatisfied with the above-mentioned scheme as it is being handled by the War Ministry alone with the British Company and means a violation of the rights of the Ministry of Communications. However, the latter ministry approved of the matter when General Ting Ching's memorandum was transfered to it from the Cabinet Office. Hence, officially speaking, the plan has already secured the Government's approval and is to materialise before long. The Ministry of Communcations, after all, cannot remain silent. It is feared that obstructions will be offered to the matter by the officers of the telegraphic offices in the provinces on the following grounds: First that the cost of the wireless telegraph apparatus as provided for in the above mentioned memorandum is too high, and second, that the places mentioned in the memorandum for the establishment of wireless telegraph stations have already wire telegraph offices in actual business and it is most likely that needless duplications in service will result.

News Notes From Peking

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, September 18.—Peking Government University has expanded its Department of Music, dividing it into the sections of Chinese Music and of Western Music. Courses are offered the coming term in more than ten different instruments, Western and Chinese. The National University is believed to be the first modern educational institution to take up the study of the Chinese instruments and of native music on a scientific basis, and its decision to do so is in pursuance of its policy to preserve all that is best in the ancient Chinese culture along with the introduction of western science and art.

INVASION PROTESTED

The Central government, aside from wiring another protest to General Tang Chi-yao of Yunnan regarding his rumored impending invasion of Hunan and Hupeh, has commanded Generals Wang Chuan-yuan and Chen Kwang-yuan to take every necessary precautionary measure.

SEEK INTERNAL PEACE

In the hope of resuscitating the internal peace prospects, the government has ordered Ting Nai-yang to get in touch with Tsen Chun-hsuan and Lu Yung-ting and Li Hsun to approach Sun Yat-sen and Wu Ting-fang in Shanghai.

SEMENOFF TAKES CARS

It is reported that Semenoff's men have used force in requisitioning rolling stock of the Chinese Eastern Railway for transferring his forces to Vladivostok. The administration of the Railway has reported the matter to the government, who have instructed General Pao Kwei-ching to use force if necessary in maintaining Chinese authority over the railway.

KOO WIRES RESIGNATION

Dr. Wellington Koo, dissatisfied with the delay of the Chinese government in preparing its case for presentation to the League of Nations, has wired his resignation as head of the Chinese delegation to the League conference. The President has requested him to retain his position, assuring him that the Minister of Foreign Affairs will soon have the matters to be adjudicated in shape for submission and delegating him full plenipotentiary power.

DEMAND CONVENTION

The Government has been in receipt of telegrams from the public bodies of Chekiang, Kiangsu, Shantung, Honan and other provinces asking for permission to call a preliminary session of the Citizens' Convention in each province to discuss what questions to be brought up for final settlement at the National Citizen's Convention. The Government has not given them any reply nor has it shown its definite attitude toward this matter. Owing to hostilities being resumed in Kwangtung, Kwangsi and Yunnan the South-west is rather indifferent toward the proposed Convention. The enthusiasm of the Peking students is also gradually waning because they are engrossed with the famine relief work at present.

MILITARY CONFERENCE

General Wu Pei-fu is calling a Provincial Military Conference at Paoting. He has sent circular telegrams to the military officers, high and low, of the whole province of Chihli to present themselves at the meeting. The questions to be discussed are the defensive measures to be adopted in Hupeh in view of the contemplated attack on the latter province by the Yunnan troops, and the reorganisation and training of the Chihli troops.

URGENT TELEGRAM

An urgent telegram from a Yunnan reporter states that General Tang Chi-yao, Tuchun of Yunnan, is now leaguing with Liu Hsian-shi, Tuchun of Kweichow, for a northern expedition. As a result of a joint military conference at Chunkiang, Li Lieh-shiun was made the commander-in-Chief of the Allied Forces and a general mobilisation will be announced on the National Day, October 10. In the meantime, General Tang has joined hands with General Tang Yen-kai, Tu-

Secrets of Beauty

WHEN I arise in the morning my nose is always so oily that I have to wash it several times before it gets back to a normal state. Please give me a remedy for this unpleasant condition.—H. H.

To correct that oily tendency of your nose you will find it beneficial to dust that feature several times a day with the following astringent powder:

Bicarbonate of soda....2 ounces
Pulverized orris root.....1 ounce
Pulverized spermaceti....1 dram

Mix the ingredients thoroughly and keep in a dry place.

I AM very much annoyed with hairy growths and warts on my face. Do you think it would be safe to have them removed with the electric needle?—J. L.

Occasionally an inexpert or clumsy operator will do more harm than good in the effort to remove them, but, on the whole, you will find this method comparatively safe. More than that, it is the only way they can be removed permanently. But you must be sure to obtain the services of a reliable operator. I cannot refer you to any names and addresses in these columns, but if you will consult any good physician he can advise you where you can get this electrolytic needling process done properly.

MY nose is a prominent one, anyway, but near the end of it is a lump of fat which makes it look a great deal longer. Can you tell me what will make this lump disappear?—MILDRED R.

That extra lump of flesh can sometimes be cut off by a skilful surgeon in such a way that it leaves no scar whatever, and the result more than compensates for whatever pain or inconvenience may be caused by this method. However, if you are afraid to attempt such a drastic remedy you will find it exceedingly helpful to massage the nose upward and backward very gently toward the eyes every day. Below is given an effective absorbent remedy. A little of this, if applied judiciously every day while massaging this feature, will help materially in reducing its size:

Tincture of iodine.....30 minims
Iodide of potassium.....60 grains
Hyposulphite of soda...20 grains
Distilled water .....7 ounces
Aniseed water.....170 minims

HOW can I make my hair turn gray more rapidly and uniformly?—A. R.

You can hasten the whitening process of your hair by shampooing it once a week for a time in an equal mixture of plain household ammonia and peroxide of hydrogen. Apply with a sponge or an old toothbrush to the hair and afterward rinse very thoroughly in clear water. In the final rinsing the effect will be greatly improved by the addition of a little ordinary bluing to the water. If the scalp gets too dry from this treatment rub in a little sweet almond oil, taking care to put this on the scalp only and keep it away from the hair itself as much as possible."

WILL you give me a remedy that will be harmless and, if possible, without dieting, to reduce surplus flesh around the hips?—ALMA.

It must be a part of your daily routine to take some exercise in the open air, even if you can manage only a brisk walk of half an hour. Every night before going to bed spend ten minutes in trying to touch the floor with your fingertips without bending the knees. Faithful adherence to this simple exercise will reduce materially your waist and hip measurements. A strenuous daily massage of the hips with the following absorbent remedy will be found helpful also:

Iodide of potassium.....2 ounces
Camphor water.....2 ounces
Alcohol .....2 ounces

MY nose is inclined to get red at the touch of a sharp wind. Will you please advise me how to cure this?—A. E. J.

Cold weather will sometimes cause a congestion of the smaller capillarie thus producing that unpleasant redness. To overcome this you must find some effective means to stimulate your circulation. For this a light massage, with a rotary motion, is sometimes excellent in dissipating the excess of blood in this region. Be sure that you eat none but the plainest of foods and only the simplest of desserts. A strong local remedy like this can be applied once or twice a day if the redness threatens to become chronic:

Pure glycerine.....2 grams
Camphor water.....5 ounces
Tannic acid.....5 grains

Good Ways of Using Sour Milk

By Mary Lee Swann, The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

Sour Cream Ice Cream.

ADD 1½ cups sugar or 1¾ cups sifted and sweetened fruit pulp. Set aside for an hour or longer. Add 1 quart thick sour cream and freeze, using 3 parts ice and 1 part salt.

Gingerbread.

MIX 1¾ teaspoons soda with 1 cup sour milk and 1 cup black molasses. Mix and sift 2½ cups flour, 2 teaspoons ginger and ½ teaspoon salt and add to liquid ingredients. Add ¼ cup melted shortening and beat thoroughly. Pour into a buttered shallow pan and bake about ½ hour in a moderate oven.

Doughnuts.

MIX and sift 4 cups flour with 2 teaspoons soda, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and 1 teaspoon nutmeg. Beat 4 eggs thoroughly, add 2 cups sugar, 1½ cups sour milk and ¼ cup melted butter or other fat. Add flour gradually, heating until smooth. Add as much more sifted flour as is necessary to make a dough that will roll easily. Turn ¼ of the dough out on a floured board, knead gently, pat and roll out about ¼ inch thick. Shape with a doughnut cutter, fry to a golden brown in deep fat, drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar. The little balls cut from centres of doughnuts may be fried in deep fat, sprinkled with powdered sugar and served with afternoon tea.

Sour Milk Corn Bread.

BEAT 1 egg slightly and add 2 cups sour milk, ¾ teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon salt. Add 2 cups cornmeal and beat well. Add 1½ tablespoons melted butter or lard and ¼ teaspoon baking powder. Bake in a hot greased pan.

Buttermilk Frosting.

PUT ¾ cup buttermilk in saucepan, add ¾ cup sugar and bring to boiling point. Boil until mixture when tried in cold water forms a soft ball. Remove from fire and beat until thick enough to spread.

Fruit Pie Crust.

MIX and sift 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar and ¼ teaspoon soda. With a knife or spatula gently work in ¼ cup thick sour cream and then add enough water to make a dough. Roll out on a floured board and bake in a rather quick oven.

Bread Crumb Muffins.

MIX 1 cup dry bread crumbs, which have been pressed through food chopper, with ½ cup sifted flour, 2 cups bran and 1 teaspoon salt. Beat 1 egg slightly, add 2 tablespoons black molasses, 2 cups sour milk and 1 scant teaspoon soda. Combine with dry ingredients and beat well. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake about 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Sour Milk Griddle Cakes.

MIX and sift 2½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt and 1¼ teaspoons soda. Beat 1 egg thoroughly and add about 2 cups sour milk. Mix well and add gradually to sifted flour. Beat until smooth. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased hot griddle. Cook on one side. When full of bubbles turn and cook on other side. Serve hot with butter and molasses, maple syrup, jelly or marmalade.

Soft Molasses Cookies.

ADD 1¾ teaspoons soda to 1 cup molasses and beat well. Add 1 cup sour milk and ½ cup melted fat. Sift 1 cup flour with 2 teaspoons salt and beat into the liquid ingredients. Add sufficient sifted flour to make a dough that will drop from spoon. Set in ice box over-night or for several hours. Then turn out on lightly floured board and roll gently about ¼ inch thick. Cut out and bake in a moderate oven.

Boston Brown Bread.

MIX 2 cups sour milk with ¾ cup black molasses. Add 1 teaspoon soda, dissolved in 1 tablespoon warm water, and heat in 1 cup rye meal, 1 cup graham meal or flour, 2 cups cornmeal and 1½ teaspoons salt. Beat thoroughly Grease 3 or 4 pound baking powder or coffee cans and divide batter evenly into them. Steam for 1½ or 2 hours. A few chopped dates or raisins may be added if desired.

Problems of Love

Solved by Leonore Carfax.

I DO not think it is right to eat without saying grace. My father always said grace and I always supposed my husband would do the same. He, however, positively refuses. I am very unhappy, for I realize the longer we continue in this fashion the harder it will be to re-establish our home life on the proper footing, as I am determined to do. What would you advise?—E. M.

Saying grace is, of course, a matter of training and religious belief. Just because your father said grace is not a sufficient reason to expect your husband to do so. It would be quite ideal if he would conform to your wishes in this respect, but it will never do for you to antagonize him on so delicate a subject as this. Why don't you say grace yourself? Many women do, and I am sure your husband will respect this religious observance of yours.

MY husband is a high-salaried man, but he refuses to give me any spending money. Everything I buy has to be charged to his account, and he goes over the bills carefully at the end of the month before he pays them. I have been humiliated so often while out with other women by being unable to do my part in paying for afternoon teas and other social exchanges. Sometimes I have even had to borrow carfare. I feel I cannot endure these conditions much longer. What shall I do?—M. N.

It is no wonder that you resent the humiliation of your present position. Your husband is doing you a great injustice in treating you like a child who cannot be trusted to spend money wisely. I believe the majority of men who take this and are lacking in imagination and incapable of visualizing the humiliating circumstances in which they place their wives. To remedy this defect paint as vividly as you can the various difficulties in which you find yourself placed. If this fails to move your husband could you not manage some time when you are both going out with friends so that he will find himself unexpectedly without any money to do his share in entertaining? It is a rather drastic measure, but he will probably have to pass through the same humiliating circumstances himself before he will be able to comprehend your position.

I HAVE been married only three months, and a few days ago I accidentally came upon a letter of recent date in my husband's pocket, in which a girl is thanking him for an opal ring he had just sent her. Ought I to confront him with this or go on pretending, as I have been, that I know nothing?—A. B. C.

If you are absolutely sure that there is not the slightest chance of you being mistaken in your facts I would not mention the matter to him—at least not at present. You cannot do much with a man when you get him in as tight a corner as that. Doubtless he would inconsistently throw the blame for the whole affair upon your having gone through his pockets, and, of course, you are not quite guiltless in this respect. In the end you will either have to separate or overlook the affair anyway. If you give him enough freedom he will probably come back to you of his own accord. The main importance in this opal ring letter for you is this—that your realize that, even though married, you still have to compete with other women for your husband's affection. As you once won him away from all other women you can doubtless do so again.

WHEN my wife married me we were very poor, and no one could appreciate more than I do the way she saved and did all the work herself to enable me to get ahead. But now that I am prosperous and can afford servants to relieve her of household drudgery I cannot induce her to give it up. She thinks no one can keep the house clean enough. No servant can cook to suit her. In this way she is missing all the advantages which our prosperity could bring her. Is there any way to get her out of this rut?—JIM.

Your wife is in the same position as a man who has devoted so many years to business that he can enjoy nothing else. It will take time and patience on your part to create new channels for her energy and activity, but it can be done. I know of one man who weaned his wife away from housework by making her think he needed her help in his office. He kept up this "bluff" until he had gotten her interested in some social service work. From that she drifted into social clubs and he had no further trouble.

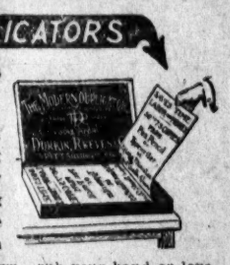
MODERN DUPLICATORS

TO OPERATE THE "MODERN" DUPLICATOR-PRINTER



You simply make one original with pen or typewriter, using triple strength copying ink or typewriter ribbon, or copying pencil as if it were the only one you wanted, then put that one on the Duplicator—writing side down—rub your hand or leveler over it to smooth it out evenly, allow it to remain on the Duplicator about two minutes and the writing is transferred to the Duplicator. You then take your letter or original writing or drawing off the Duplicator and put on blank sheets of paper, postal cards or cloth, one at a time, and run leveler or hand over same and perfect duplicate copies of the original will be printed. In this way you can print up to 75 duplicate copies from each original in 15 minutes; them when the duplicates begin to show up pale, simply erase the impression from the duplicator with damp sponge, and then if you want more of the same kind of duplicates, put on the first one (the original) that you wrote and repeat as above.

Questions And Answers

HERE are some questions by a reader who subscribes himself "Wilsonian in 1916" and some answers by THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir: Needless to say all broad-minded Americans want to vote this Fall in such a way as to place a man (and a cabinet) in Washington which will best look after the interests of our country. Most of us really care not whether he be Democrat or republican just so long as he will do all in his power to restore normal conditions at home and abroad, if possible. We note your great fondness for the League of Nations which at the present time is preserving peace in Europe (sic!) For the further enlightenment of your readers will you kindly reply to the following questions, in order:

There are about sixty nations on the earth—half of these are members of the League of Nations. Of the latter only four constitute the so-called Supreme Council—these are England, France, Japan and Italy. These four dominate the other twenty-six, am I right?

Now, why should they? Who authorised them to be the arbiters of the civilised world? Who authorised them to issue mandates to other nations? Are the other nations in the League bound to obey these mandates? If not please explain what is a mandate.

Our correspondent either hasn't read or has forgotten the provisions of the League Covenant. This Covenant provides that the Supreme Council is to consist of nine powers, Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and the United States and four others to be named from time to time. All the smaller powers joining the league get equal protection and equal guarantees. In this connection it must be remembered that the smaller powers are unable to protect themselves and seek of their own accord the protection of the league. The larger powers, Great Britain and the United States particularly, are richer and more powerful in every way than the others, besides which they have the ownership and responsibility for most of the vital necessities of the modern world: wheat, meat, cotton, corn, coal, copper, iron, etc. The happiness and prosperity of the world are largely in their hands. If they dominate because of these things, can the smaller powers help it? They dominate whether or not you have a league, and if they dominate they also protect.

If the United States were a member of this League would it not be bound to obey the mandates issued by the Supreme Council?

No. Decisions of the Supreme Council must be unanimous. Therefore no decision can be reached if one power objects, and the power that objects, if dissatisfied with the League, is at liberty to withdraw from it by giving two years' notice. And during that period nothing can be done about the matter in dispute, because the objecting power still remains a member. Before rushing into print with these questions, our correspondent should have consulted the Covenant.

How long do England, France, Italy and Japan contiune to be the Big Four of the Supreme Council? When and how can they be superseded?

Are Germany, Russia, Austria and Hungary to be permitted to join the League at some future time? If so will any of them or any of the other fifty-six nations of the earth have the right to membership of the Supreme Council—to replace any or all of the Big Four?

Of course it is the purpose to get the nations named into the League. Some of them are to be represented unofficially at the coming financial conference of the league, as Reuter's reported to us. And while the four unnamed seats on the council are at present held by other nations, it is obviously the purpose eventually to have the former enemy powers and Russia on the Supreme Council. That is largely why the four other seats were created but at the time of enactment those powers could not be named, nor can they yet be named. There is nothing unfair about this League Covenant. As amended at Paris before enactment and in order to meet the suggestions made by Senator Root, ex-President Taft and other Republican leaders, it is a great document.

Is it not possible that the Nations in the League and the Supreme Council be split into parties, who will align themselves into antagonism to each other? The only way we can judge the future is by the past, you know.

We are told that if any nation starts to stir up war the other members of the League will overwhelm it. Is it not much more likely that if any nation seeks war it will form alliances with the other nations in sympathy with it so that it will not be one against twenty-nine but thirty against thirty or twenty against twenty, or the like?

Certainly it is possible that the League may disagree and divide into factions. Why ask ridiculous questions? Remember that any powers that do not like the way the league is being run may withdraw—but that great proviso about giving two years notice enters here. And considering the general attitude of the world against war, what nation, or group of nations, can go before its own people and say that it is giving the rest of the League two years' notice to prepare for war?

England and Japan, two of the Big Four (both noted for their acquisitive natures) are close allies: they need only one more of the Supreme Cousell to control it. Is it a remote impossibility that they might succeed?

If the United States were in the League and in the Supreme Council would it not be in a hopeless minority?

Our correspondent here merely shows his ignorance of the provisions of the Covenant. He thinks that the decision of the Supreme Council could be made by three nations, instead of nine. It is certainly discouraging to see people making up their minds on this great issue without even having taken the trouble to read the Covenant.

We have protested against the taking of Korea and Shantung (population aggregating 52,000,000 people perhaps). Have our protests been heeded by Japan—or any member of the Supreme Council?

Today the population of Japan, including Korea, Shantung, Formosa and miscellaneous islands of the Pacific which it governs is greater than that of the United States.

The League of Nations, if it lives, will get to these questions in time. Surely our correspondent does not consider that the mere protest of the United States is enough.

How long do you think fifty-six nations of the earth will meekly submit to be under the control of the Big Four? How long would the other forty-four states of the Union submit to dictation of say, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Illinois? Is it any more reasonable to think that the best of the world will submit to the domination of England, France, Italy and Japan?

This question arises from the same failure of our correspondent to acquaint himself with the provisions of the covenant, that we have sufficiently noted above. He wouldn't have asked it if he had been familiar with the Covenant.

Lastly, if the League of Nations is to preserve peace why are the Japs and Americans building more and more battleships in feverish haste? Why did Wilson, while preaching doctrines of disarmament, and "peace, perfect peace," send an urgent cable home to Daniels instructing him to put in requisitions for a number of first-line battleships? If Wilson had no faith in his League can he rightfully expect the people he is supposed to represent to have it?

The nations continue to arm because the League of Nations is not yet a going concern and because the United States has not joined the league or signified its intention to do so. The League itself has yet to hold its first meeting.

If you will clear up these few points I am sure you will be able to do much more than any man has yet done at home or abroad.

Well, we have answered them.

In conclusion, would suggest that you talk over the League of Nations and Wilson with any European recently arrived in Shanghai and you will perceive the scorn and derision which both have brought upon the American people. Read any current issue of London newspapers if you would see the "deep regard" with which we are favored by our "War Allies." Yours very truly,

"WILSONIAN IN 1916."

And now to answer the last paragraph. The people of Europe who have read the League Covenant are not laughing at Wilson and they are not laughing at the American people. They are rather astonished and dismayed at the failure of America to ratify. As to the attitude of the London press, that varies, most of it is friendly. The attitude of a large number of Americans on the Irish question, is, of course, warmly resented in some quarters.

Now let us ask our correspondent this question: Does he know that the Covenant of the League of Nations recognises the Monroe Doctrine expressly and by name? Well, it does. The effect of this recognition probably would be that the United States by joining the League would to some extent preserve the Monroe Doctrine. By staying out of the League, no such result is possible to the United States, because, as we have previously pointed out, with South and Central America giving their allegiance to the League, questions affecting them would be decided by the League, and the Monroe Doctrine thus would become a dead letter—that is, unless the United States wished to place itself in opposition to the whole League. Isn't that so?

Gibbs Discovers Sculptor

Sir Philip Gibbs, known to all Americans through his graphic descriptions of battles and the men who fought them, has discovered something new in art through the works of a Canadian sculptor, on exhibition in London.

The artist is Dr. Tait Mackenzie, a Montreal physician, formerly attached to McGill University and the Montreal General Hospital, and of his work the famous British war correspondent says:

"Here is something new and something good in the art of sculpture. New, but not ugly or violent or wild, like so much modern work which attempts desperately to break with old traditions.

"Dr. Mackenzie believes in beauty and achieves it, though he has gone beyond classical ideals and adventurous purpose to express modern life with the most intimate and realistic understanding, to reveal the character of modern manhood in its ordinary workday dress, and to show beauty of physical energy as it is seen in our playing fields and training camps."

British Blundering And Sinn Fein Malice In Ireland

LAND HUNGER IN IRELAND

BY CHARLES H. GRASTY
(New York Times)
(Concluded from Yesterday)

Statistics in Ireland are often hard to get, but in 1912 the total acreage was about 19,000,000, of which 12,500,000 were in pasture. Of the remaining one-third about 12 percent was in hay, 5 percent in oats and 10 percent in other crops. The rest was marsh, bog, woods and barren mountains.

Since the repeal of the corn laws of the last century Ireland has gradually changed from agricultural to pastoral. In no other country under an ordered democratic rule would it have been possible to handle large land-owners with such ruthlessness. But Ireland's plight had been agitated with such persistency and general conditions in that country were so unhappy that the British Government finally chose the alternative of formal and legal injustice to the large landowner in order to get a distribution that the poorer classes, either through lack of thrift or through unjust and unwise laws, had been unable to procure for themselves.

The extent to which conditions were changed under the act of 1903 is shown by the fact that in the Province of Connaught 55 percent of the area is in small farms. The Congested District Commission is still purchasing land when owners show any disposition to sell. At this one point at least there is co-operation between British officials and Sinn Fein for the bank of this organisation, under the Presidency of Smith Gordon, is furnishing funds that would not otherwise be obtainable at moderate interest rates. As I have mentioned before, I understand that this money comes largely from America. It is advanced through small purchasers who make nominal cash payment and give long-time mortgages for deferred payments.

FORCE SALES OF LAND

While this lawful and orderly process is going on Sinn Fein is permitting another form of distributing land for which only the sanction of their own courts is necessary. Irish youths who stayed at home during the war go in bodies from fifty to three hundred, frequently taking coffins as a persuasive influence and notify a landowner that he will be expected to sell them portions of his property. In the typical case the owner sends for help and the aggressions temporarily stop. But unless the owner gets protection of some kind he is likely to furnish a subject for a Coroner's inquest, the verdict of which usually is that the victim came to his death at the hands of "persons unknown." This has resulted, as it was intended to result, in a general selling movement among large landowners. Prices are usually fixed by a Sinn Fein tribunal and the figures are extremely moderate. If the owner attempts to sell at public auction there are no bidders. Many of these large landowners do not deserve much sympathy, for the land has been held for centuries in the same families, who have done nothing to improve conditions.

One of the reasons why it is easy to stir up agitation in Ireland is that the rural laboring classes are not fully employed and have time to talk politics. Alien and tyrannical rule is the constant topic of conversation. The oppressions of the conquering race discussed and brooded over. In this sense the Irish have the instinct of freedom.

INFLUENCE OF THE CHURCH

Circumstances have identified the Church with the agitating element in Ireland, but after all the Church is fundamentally conservative. Labor is deeply Bolshevist in Ireland, and when the time comes that it must appear in its true character and disclose its real aims, there will be a new cleavage that will cut across the Sinn Fein. On Sir Horace Plunkett's co-operative bodies Ulsterites and Catholics sit side by side in harmony. Similarly, if the issue is raised between the property holding classes and labor, Leinster, Connaught and Munster will divide on approximately the same lines as Ulster.

I heard a good deal of vague but significant talk in Belfast that bore out what I had heard before in Dublin. I felt authorised to say that in the not distant future Sir Edward Carson and some of the leaders of the South and West might be sitting together at a table in an effort to find a common ground upon which all four counties could stand. Much as Carson is disliked in the Dublin "pale," he is greatly respected—as is well known he is Dublin born—and I do not believe that it is at all impossible that certain of the Irish leaders will treat with him and try to reach an agreement which can be submitted to Parliament.

The contrast between the concentration of mind and energy in Ireland and the [illegible] and absent-minded methods of the British Government is striking. During the whole time since the rebellion of 1916 the British Government has made hardly a single effective move to check the progress of the republican plans. The first blow that has got beyond the guard of Sinn Fein was the Prime Minister's taking up the recent challenge from labor with such promptness and vigor. So dilatory and blundering has been the Government policy that the Irish leaders had begun to conceive an actual contempt for it.

With such uninformed and ill-considered resistance from London, I have no doubt that the Irish leaders had begun to believe that they would succeed and that they would listen to no compromise, however far reaching. If they receive a serious check, however, I believe that they will change their minds and accept a compromise, hoping to use it as a stepping stone to the ultimate goal of an Irish republic whenever circumstances again favor taking up that scheme.

The position of the hierarchy and the priests is difficult to discuss without fear of wounding sensitive feelings. In a general way, my observations confirm the statement of a broad-minded Church of England rector, with whom I talked before coming to Ireland. He said that the priests had not, in his opinion, fomented trouble in Ireland; they were the shepherds of their flocks, and it was inevitable that they should reflect the feelings and opinions of the people with whom they were so closely associated. As I have before remarked, the Church, in its natural effort to preserve the body of Catholicism, has shaped Irish character into such forms as to make it amenable to any revolution inspired by passion for country.

RELIGION INSULATES IRISH

A by-product of Catholic training has been the preservation of the isolation of Ireland. As in some other Catholic countries, like Spain, the people have remained impervious to outside ideas which would have tended to broaden them and, to some extent, loosen the hold of the Church. It can hardly be expected that the representatives of the Church could take any other view than that the spiritual welfare of the community depended upon devotion to the Church, and that it was the chief business of the hierarchy and priests to preserve this devotion. Unfortunately for the other view— namely, that the welfare of the country would be promoted by some process of broadening—the Catholics and the Protestants have been walled off from each other in such a way as to prevent commingling.

In visiting Ulster and the rest of Ireland it seemed to me that if Ulster and Catholic Ireland could be combined racially and industrially the mixture would produce a wonderful race of people. Each would provide what the other lacks; but in order to bring about such a combination it would be necessary to have some omnipotent power that does not now exist.

The chief aim of the Church must at all times remain that of maintaining Catholicism in Ireland. The hierarchy would do nothing to estrange a very large body of its own community, and it is inclined to await developments. Most people with whom I have talked believe that the hierarchy is not inclined to go further than an autonomous dominion, though large numbers of young priests have associated themselves strongly with the movement for a republic.

Many priests, especially the humbler ones, are in the Sinn Fein movement heart and soul, but the hierarchy, except a few hot-heads, cannot be suspected of approving of the extreme violence that has been practiced by Sinn Fein. The latter organisation is too powerful for the hierarchy to attack frontally. The danger of anti-clericalism is smaller in Ireland than in other Catholic countries, but it exists remotely, and the policy of the hierarchy, therefore, is to sail as close to the wind as it can.

I have often been asked by American friends to find out how the Bishops stand, and what they want. The answer is that they want to keep the Church strong in Ireland. Their policy is modified from month to month, in accordance with changing conditions. If Sinn Fein succeeds, and Irish independence is achieved, they feel that they must keep themselves in a position to go along with the republic. And they want to be able, in case matters remain where they are, to preserve the prestige of the Church. The extremists among the priests and Bishops are more in evidence than the moderates. The rampant and able Bishop of Limerick, Dr. Fogarty, Dr. Colahan, the Archbishop of Cork, and men like them loom larger than the more moderate, but not less influential, Bishops. From a viewpoint remote from the actual scene, it gives something of a shock to see Bishops and priests straddle great moral questions like murder and assassination, but at least a human explanation is furnished by what I have said.

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper (Registered Trade Mark)

is a unique preparation and has the recommendation of leading sanitary authorities, architects, and decorators everywhere.

Quincy Todd On Grafting

BY ROY K. MOULTON

My disreputable friend Quincy Todd is not by any means what you would call a grafter. At least, you wouldn't call him that while he is within hearing distance and is in good health. All that Quincy wants to do is to make an honest living, no matter how he makes it, if you get what I mean. He has no use for grafters in politics, it being his theory that they have no business being found out.

Quincy gets his start in life about the time he is elected justice of the peace, back during the Spanish-American quarrel. How he happens to get elected is that all the other birds are away fighting for the Cubians, which are now wet and we are dry. Quincy is not by way of being much of a hand at legal procedure, but, after a manner of speaking, he knows how to temper mercy with justice, as the saying goes, which is by way of saying that he, as justice, never got any the worst of it.

While justice of the peace Quincy is in favor of enforcing all the laws, and he tells the constibule if any man looks guilty to bring him in to the court and they will find out what he is guilty of after he gets there. There happens to be quite a wave of crime waving at the time —fellers leaving their horses unhitched and letting their dogs go without muzzles and disorderly conduct, such as slapping the wife and etc.—so the justice court works harder under Quincy than under any other justice we have ever had. Which it is all straight and proper to bring a guilty looking guy into court on general principles, for, as Quincy says, every guy is guilty of something if you can only find out what it is.

So Quincy accumulates quite a rep as an invoker of the statootes as hereinbefore provided, to wit, and he has every guy in his de-estrick up two or three times a month for something or other until they all learn to plead guilty without the third degree, and there ain't a stranger that gets out of our town without being found guilty of something or other again the dignity of the commonwealth.

Every guy that comes into Quincy's court is guilty as soon as he pokes his nose in at the door, and it is up to him to prove that he is innocent, which is a medium difficult matter. If he comes to court with a mouthpiece —a mouthpiece being, by way of saying, a lawyer—Quincy manages to find the lawyer guilty of nunc pro tunc or something before the case is finished, and the upshot of the whole thing is that the only innocent party in the courtroom is Quincy himself. Quincy goes on the theory that there ain't any innocent guys in the world, because if they are innocent they will be starving to death and not going around in good clothes.

If a witness says too much Quincy fines him for perjury, and if he don't say enough and refuses to testify Quincy fines him for contempt of court, which is by way of saying that Quincy's court was efficient. But we gotta give Quincy credit in that he is always lenient with widders and orphants and with poor people. He never wastes any time trying a case when the defendant don't look as though he can pay a fine.

The supreme court reverses Quincy one hundred and twenty-seven times in one month, but Quincy says that makes no difference, as his court can run just as well in reverse as straight ahead, which is, after a manner of speaking, the truth.

When the day's business is over Quincy and the constibule get together and Quincy takes the fines and fees he has collected and throws 'em up in the air and he says, "All that sticks to the ceiling goes to the county and all that comes down goes to us,' which Quincy figures that one four-year term will be enough.

"But that is grafting," says Elias Q. Higginbotham, a personal pal of Quincy's.

"Not in the least whatsoever," says Quincy. "You never hear anybody say anything about it, do you? You never see no headlines in the paper about it, do you? There ain't no investigation, is there? Then it ain't graft. If no sucker had ever been caught with the goods you would never hear of such a ward as 'graft.'

"There are a lot of just as fine guys as ever scuttled a ship that are now riding around in their limousines," he says. "When some tinhorn political thimblerigger gets a $2,000 fine and ten years at hard labor making little rugs out of big ones in the hoosegow for getting away with $27 of the public money these limousine gents raise their hands in holy horror and say, 'Another grafter has been caught, thank God.' They can say this because there ain't one of 'em that is making more than 700 percent selling people things the people have got to have.

"When a guy sells cookies for 25 cents a dozen he is called a grafter, but some guy across the street can sell the same kind of cookies and call 'em French pastry and get 25 cents apiece for 'em, but nobody calls him a grafter, because he is selling French pastry, which, as the great Greek philosopher Disraeli says, there is quite a lot of psychology about it, at that."

Quincy is living a quiet, retired life now, and nobody can suspect him of being a grafter. He is now, by way of speaking, a capitalist. When a guy wants to run for anything he comes to Quincy and hands Quincy a roll of toadskins, which is by way of saying currency, large enough to choke a whale, and then he says, "Quincy, can I run for alderman?" and Quincy says, "Sure, go ahead and run."

"But you couldn't stop him nohow," says Elias Q. Higginbotham. "You shouldn't ort to take the dough. That is graft."

"Not at all," says Quincy. "If I don't take the roll the guy will be so nervous he can't run. If I do take it he is contented, because he figgers he has got my permission, which is by way of saying I will not crab his act. I am really doing him a great favor. If he don't give that money to me he is liable to go and spend it foolish somewhere."

"But you give 'em all permission to run," says Elias Q. Higginbotham.

"Sure," says a Quincy; "that shows I am honest and play no favorites. When I give three or four birds permission to run for the same job we always have a lively election, which lively elections are the base of our government."

And speaking of graft, have you ever noticed how many prominent gents are out of town when anybody starts an investigation? There are big grafters and little ones, and if you took the names of all the grafters in one way or another out of the telephone book you could print the names of all the rest of the subscribers on a celluloid cuff.

Discourses Of A Scientist

BY EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN
(Director of Mt. Lowe Observatory)

In this column during many years I have attempted to answer many thousands of questions dealing entirely with matter. But now hundreds of others come incessantly, such as "What is ether?" "Has it been shown to exist scientifically?" "What is consciousness?" "What is mind?" "Has immortality been proved?" "Define religion." "What is ethical culture?" "Which existed first, mind or matter?" "Has space a boundary?" "Is the human individuality finite or infinite.?"

The ether of space is intangible. The extensive researches of Michaelson, Morley, Nichols, Millikan and others failed to detect its presence. The reason why science adopts the idea of cosmic ether filling space is to afford a method of energy reaching the earth from our own sun in floods, and from billions of others feebly. Energy of light, that and electricity reach the earth, and waves of light energy range from 33,000 to 63,000 to the inch. But the energy is stored in the form of transmitted waves transverse to the line of propagation. Waves of what? at once was asked. The reply is, waves in ether, and this is the state of science today. Recondite electrical phenomena also lend support to the concept of space ether. Its properties cannot be imagined entirely.

Consciousness is the first known attribute to mind, and may be described by the word awareness, being aware that external entities exist; that is, external to the mind. All manners of definitions are appearing in present psychology. To me this is the simplest of all. None living now, nor any human who has lived in the past, has, or ever had, a trace of a clue as to what Mind is. Survival of a thinking human entity after the death of the body has been proven scientifically. But how long it survives has not been shown. Immortality means forever, and, of course, science can not prove that. Psychologists are striving to find if soul, spirit and individuality are identical.

I like to write that the human mind is a minute fraction of primordial mind. This replies to the question, "Which was first, mind or matter?" Mind first, for no object can appear in space until thought first. The thought form precedes.

We cannot even begin to think of a boundary to space at present. The world's mighty masters of exalted mathematics never try to think of limits to space. But if man keeps on mentally expanding for only twenty years as he has since 1900 no imagination now can conceive of what he may become. High mathematics is now battling against the mighty bulwarks of infinity. Man is entering a labyrinth of exploration whose winding ways and hidden chambers are far more intricate than in the famous labyrinths at Crete, and Lemnos, in Greece, and of Arsinoi, in Egypt. No fabled Minotaurus, a destroying monster however will be met but "self." You will meet yourself, maybe pure or scarred by error.

Conditioned immortality is a term appearing in literature of recent psychology; that is, immortality must either be earned or be given to you. Why should one totally unworthy have eternal life? The true meaning of the word religion is "returning and gathering." It is the highest act of an individual; the instant a human discovers the individuality within, the original spark, a halt is made, then a turn-about into a renewed life; the very Divinity Garden, teeming with flowers, is re-entered; dark spectacles are removed, and a real exploration of self is established. Ethical culture is simply right living—that is, living a life of harmony between the personality and individuality.

Here are a few admonitions taken literally from the saying of one of the greatest psychologists who ever lived on earth:

"Reason shall be manifested by cultured invitation of the spiritual or Divine essence of man's soul and spirit."

"Seek ye infinite not finite things."

"Change thy heart from evil to good."

"Raise thyself, even at the expense of thy free will if necessary."

"There is a soul in every man immortal and unchangeable in quality or essence, invisible to bodily eyes."

"The next greatest sin is the sin of living for yourselves."

"The will of man is free and uncontrolled. Without that, where would be responsibility?"

"Repentance is an act of will; atonement is a punishment received."

"When youth begins, the child has already implanted the seeds of good and evil. Careful culture may yet weed out much of the latter and cause the remainder to be overshadowed by the former."

I could go on writing these highly scientific psychological quotations for a year. It will be observed that the Master states the soul to be immortal. Also that there is inherent in children both good and evil. But elsewhere the Mighty Master says that evil is due to the soul's descent into and living in contact with matter.
